SavoirFaire

A Tribute to Craftsmanship in High End Interior Design and Architecture

GRAND CASINO KNOKKE, BELGIUM

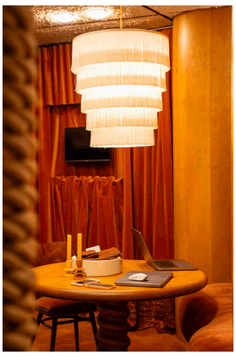
RECAP 2024 - OPEN CALL 2025

The first SavoirFaire was a great success and is set to return even bigger!

At the end of October, SavoirFaire took place for the first time at the Grand Casino Knokke. From the start, it was clear this would not be a classic fair; visitors were not to expect a lifestyle event or a construction fair. SavoirFaire was a meeting place for craftsmanship enthusiasts, both professionals and individuals seeking the highest quality of finishing.

The selection of dozens of participants and the concept proved to be a bullseye, with more than 2.000 visitors on the first day alone.

Unique about SavoirFaire was the fact that visitors were transported in a Mercedes-Maybach shuttle service to showcase projects by participants in Knokke-Heist. At the event in the casino, attendees discovered premieres such as the Bang&Olufsen Spectre, marble dog baskets by Kain & Abel, lighting fixtures by Rose Bernaches, and the Il Giro project by Studio Rombauts. Visitors were also introduced to timeless creations by Glenn Sestig Architects via Les Confidents, or high-quality creations in wood by Lanssens or natural stone by Hullebusch. RV Architects surprised with a combination of Belgian furniture and remarkable painting techniques.



Throughout the weekend, it remained pleasantly busy, and the participants were particularly impressed by the quality of the visitors. This is why nearly all will return next year, with the event expanding by 15 additional stands. "With this expansion, we aim to strengthen the offerings that are not yet represented at the event," says initiator Alexander Tuteleers. "We sense that SavoirFaire's visitors appreciated the first edition but are open to more—a one-stop-shop, so to speak, for high-end design and craftsmanship enthusiasts. That's exactly what we're striving to offer."

So, follow SavoirFaire.be on Instagram and mark October 23-26, 2025, in your calendar!
